The Political Parties Registration Commission (PPRC) on Monday 8th February 2016 commenced a two days annual review retreat at the Commissions headquarters, Tower Hill in Freetown.

In her welcome address, the Acting Admin and Human Resource Manager Hawa Davies (Mrs.) says the review will be used as a platform for staff to re-examine the Commission's weakness and redirect it work.

Declaring the purpose of the meeting, the Acting Mediation and Programmes Manager Josephine P.M. Lebbie reminded staff of the Commissions' role and said the two days meeting will look at programmes in the Commissions' strategic plan taking into consideration the deliverables for 2016.

In her statement, the Acting Registrar Zainab Umu Moseray (Mrs.) said the review is unique as it is a major operational task in charting the way forward with a view to meeting the organizational goals and earning the confidence of political parties and other stakeholders.

Training of Political Parties Leadership on organizational efficiency formed the highpoint of discussions in day one.

The retreat brought together staff from Bo, Kenema, Makeni, Kono and Freetown
